EDUCATIONAL CONSULTANT IN FREDERICK MD OFFERING SPECIAL EDUCATION SUPPORT

What Sets Migdal Consulting Apart From Other Educational Consultants?

I have a unique understanding because I sat in three seats at the IEP table. I was a special education teacher, general education teacher, and parent of dyslexic children, and now I sit in the fourth seat as an educational consultant. I believe in working as a team and offering my support to everyone at the table because that is what is best for the students and make sure they are receiving FAPE.

LEARNING DISABILITY SUPPORT & TUTORING SERVICES

What is FAPE?

Students with disabilities have the same right to K-12 public education that students without disabilities have. In order to receive and benefit from that education, students with disabilities may need special education and/or related aids and services. Section 504 and Title II require public schools to provide appropriate education and modifications, aids and related services free of charge to students with disabilities and their parents or guardians.

The "appropriate" component means that this education must be designed to meet the individual educational needs of the student as determined through appropriate evaluation and placement procedures. However, students with disabilities must be educated with students without disabilities to the maximum extent appropriate.
